Dodd Levels Blast At Mosk Charges

Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., says Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk "doesn't know what he's talking about" when he calls the Christian Anti-Communism Crusade "a fly-by-night promotion."

Interviewed in his room in the Leamington Hotel before lecturing at the Bay Region School of Anti-Communism, Dodd, 54, didn't hesitate to criticize fellow Democrat Mosk, who serves as the party's National Committeeman from California.

"I'm afraid he has fallen into the hands of people who are using him," the white-haired senator declared. "I don't think Walter Judd is a fly-by-nighter. I don't think Herbert Philbrick or General Dean are either. And I don't consider myself one."

EQUAL TV TIME

Mosk asked for television time to answer charges made against him by Dunlap C. Clark, financial chairman of the school, and it was granted.

On Monday night, Clark, a retired Oakland banker, made a sharp attack on Mosk, which was televised by KTVU-Channel 2. He called on the attorney general to apologize or prove his statements.

Ward D. Ingram, president of San Francisco-Oakland Television Inc., operators of KTVU said the station "would be delighted" to grant Mosk's request.

KTVU said Mosk's replying statement would be telecast during the regular news program at 10 p.m. next Monday.

Previously Dr. Fred C. Schwarz, head of the crusade and school had invited Mosk to share the platform and television screen with him during one of the school's sessions.

Because the school closes Friday, Dr. Schwarz and the attorney general will not be on the same program, KTVU said.

Pacing between rooms of his suite, Dodd analyzed his position: "I'm not an extremist. I was one of the first to criticize the John Birch Society and other crackpots and puts on the extreme right. They are a nuisance."

SAND IN EYES

"The left-wingers," he continued, "try to associate any moderate with the lunatic fringe. They make an effort to throw sand in the eyes of the American people so they can't see Communist methods clearly."

He took a long puff on his pipe and returned to the efforts of Dr. Schwarz' crusade.

If these extremists are after

Dr. Schwarz, Dodd theorized, that's proof in itself that the Australian physician is doing a good job.

Dodd said that the vast majority of Americans are moderates who can become victimized by the extremists of the right and left.

The former FBI agent and prosecutor of Nazi war criminals has participated in only two of the 15 schools Dr. Schwarz has conducted.

"I do as much as I can," he explained. "I have to take care of my duties in the Senate."

Dodd said he was able to come to Oakland yesterday because there was agreement that there would be no Senate votes until today.

But he took a midnight plane back to Washington in order to be on hand to vote for the confirmation of John A. McCone as director of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Dodd said he would support McCone because "everything I know about him is good."

Dodd recognizes that he's considered a liberal to many. But I'm not a knee-jerk liberal," he said. "I study an issue, and if my vote comes out liberal, that's all right with me."
